Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA)

- On February 13, 2023, the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) announced the extension of the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) program. The program allows certain individuals who arrived in the United States as children to remain in the country without fear of deportation. DACA recipients must have been present in the United States since June 15, 2007, and must have graduated from high school or obtained a high school equivalency certificate. They must also meet other eligibility criteria.

Deferred Enforced Departure (DED)

- Individuals in Temporary Protected Status (TPS) are eligible for Deferred Enforced Departure (DED). DED allows individuals to remain in the United States for a period of time, provided they meet certain eligibility criteria. DED recipients must have been granted TPS status for at least 12 months prior to the date of the DED announcement. They must also have a TPS designation and be physically present in the United States on or before the date of the DED announcement.
ICE has taken steps to make the parole process for Afghan nationals more accessible through new online resources and processes. As of March 2023, Afghan nationals who are parolees are encouraged to apply for U.S. permanent residence status, which can be done through ICE's new online system. The parole process is designed to assist Afghans who are in need of protection and who may not otherwise qualify for asylum. Additionally, ICE has introduced a new temporary protected status (TPS) designation for Afghans who are currently living in the United States. The TPS program will provide a pathway to lawful immigration status for Afghans who may be unable to return to their home country due to ongoing security concerns.

On March 1, 2023, ICE announced a new “Post Pandemic” temporary protected status (TPS) designation for Afghanistan, which allows qualified Afghans to apply for TPS and work authorization. This designation applies to individuals who were in the United States on March 1, 2023, and who meet the eligibility requirements.

The Immigrant Defense Project (IDP)

The Immigrant Defense Project (IDP) is a national legal services network that provides free legal representation to indigent clients in immigration matters. The project is funded by a combination of private donations, foundation grants, and legal fees. IDP currently represents clients in approximately 60 U.S. cities, including New York City. The project is dedicated to providing quality legal services to indigent immigrants and their families, with a special focus on cases involving family and work stability. The project is staffed by a team of attorneys, paralegals, and law clerks, who work together to ensure that clients receive the best possible representation. The project is run by a full-time executive director, who is responsible for overseeing the project's operations and ensuring that it meets the needs of its clients. The project is committed to providing high-quality legal services to indigent immigrants, and it is dedicated to ensuring that every client receives the best possible representation.
