Expedited Removal

Trump Expands "Expedited Removal" to Quickly Deport Immigrants

- A federal court has allowed the Trump Administration to expand the "expedited removal" process to deport immigrants without ever seeing an immigration judge.
- Undocumented immigrants anywhere in the U.S. who cannot prove 2 years of physical presence may now be subject to expedited removal.

Who is most at risk?

- If you arrived in the U.S. less than 2 years ago and are detained by DHS, you may be at risk of being quickly deported. This process is called expedited removal.
- You may be at risk if:
 - You arrived in the U.S. less than 2 years ago and
 - You entered the U.S. without inspection (through the border between ports of entry), through a parole program like CHNV parole, or using the CBP One App.

How can I protect myself?

- If you have been in the U.S. for more than 2 years, you should carry proof of physical presence with you, like a lease or utility bills that covers this time period.
- Keep copies of your proof of residency at home and/or with a trusted person like a friend, family member, or attorney.
- If you are eligible, make sure you have filed your asylum or other applications with the Immigration Court or USCIS, and carry proof of filed applications.
- You can call the NYS Office for New Americans Hotline at 1-800-566-7636 for questions and suggestions about where to get immigration legal advice.

How do I prepare for possible detention?

- Be prepared and make a safety plan with your family or community members in case of detention.
- Get connected to court support groups or have someone accompany you to court or appointments with DHS.
- If you are detained and afraid to return to your home country and/or another country, say this clearly to ICE and any immigration officials, you may have to do so multiple times. Even if you previously applied for asylum, you should explain your fear of persecution or torture again.

TPS Terminations

Supreme Court ruling ends TPS for Haiti and Syria

- On June 25, 2026, the U.S. Supreme Court issued a ruling that allows the Trump Administration to end the Temporary Protected Status (TPS) designation for Haiti and Syria.
- More than 40,000 New Yorkers will soon lose legal protections and may be at risk of detention and deportation. This ruling also makes it easier for the Trump Administration to end TPS designations for other countries in the future.

What does this mean and what happens next?

- Haitian and Syrian TPS holders will soon lose their ability to live and work legally in the U.S.
- The Supreme Court ruling is scheduled to take effect on July 27, 2026, unless there are further court orders. The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) is expected to take further action to end TPS for Haiti and Syria soon. Check uscis.gov/TPS for updates.
- If you are affected by this ruling, do not panic! Take action now to protect yourself and your family.

How can I protect myself?

- If you currently have TPS:
 - Talk to a trusted immigration attorney or accredited representative as soon as possible to figure out your options. Many TPS holders may have other immigration options available, including family and employment based pathways.
 - Beware of scams, fake lawyers, and anyone promising guaranteed immigration benefits!
 - Do not leave the U.S without legal advice. If you decide to leave, immigration applications you have submitted may be considered abandoned and you could be barred from returning to the U.S. in the future.
 - Be prepared and make a safety plan with your family or community members in case you are detained.
 - Know Your Rights! If ICE comes to look for you, you have the right to remain silent. You can refuse entry into your home without a judicial warrant.
 - If ICE arrests you, you should tell officers immediately if you are afraid to return to your home country and/or another country. You may need to repeat to immigration officials that you want a credible fear interview and a chance to seek asylum.

Mega Master Calendar Hearings

Immigration Courts Schedule “Mega Master” Calendar Hearings

- A “mega master calendar hearing” is a hearing scheduled for 100 or more people at a time, primarily targeting people without lawyers representing them. For many immigrants, a master calendar hearing is their first time in front of an immigration judge for their case.
- If you were already scheduled for a hearing, you may be rescheduled for an earlier date.

What happens if I miss my court date?

- Some people’s hearing dates are being rescheduled to earlier dates and they may miss court because they do not realize the date has changed.
- If you miss your master calendar hearing, you will receive a removal order. This means you could be detained and/or deported.

How do I check my immigration court date?

- If you have a case in immigration court, you should check the EOIR automated case information system website or call the phone line frequently for any changes in hearing dates.
- To check your court date and location:
 - Visit acis.eoir.justice.gov and enter your 9-digit A-number and country of nationality, or
 - Call 1-800-898-7180 and follow the instructions.

How can I protect myself?

- Check your court date frequently so you do not miss your court hearing.
- Be prepared and make a safety plan with your family or community members in case of detention.
- Get connected to court support groups or have someone accompany you to your court hearing.
- If you are eligible, make sure you have filed your asylum or other applications with the court.
- If you are detained and afraid to return to your home country and/or another country, say this clearly to ICE and any immigration officials.
- You can also call the NYS Office for New Americans Hotline at 1-800-566-7636 for questions and suggestions about where to get immigration legal advice.

Know Your Rights in Court

- You have the right to object to dismissal or removal before the judge makes their decision.
- You can demand that the ICE attorney submit their argument for dismissal or removal in writing, so that you have time to explain to the judge why you want to continue your case and to seek legal assistance.
- If the judge dismisses your case or orders removal, you have the right to appeal. You can appeal this decision to the Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA). Make sure to tell the immigration judge you want to appeal.
- For more resources on your rights, visit nyic.org/kyr

Know Your Rights

Immigration Enforcement

What is going on with immigration enforcement?

- Under President Trump, there has been an increase in immigration enforcement in our communities.
- Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) and Customs and Border Protection (CBP) agents have increased immigration raids and arrests. They often work with other law enforcement, such as local police and sheriffs. As a result, we have seen more community members put in detention centers and removal proceedings.
- Recent arrivals, people without status, people whose first language is not English, and others can be at risk for enforcement.
- Consult with an immigration attorney if you have concerns.

What are my rights if I am stopped by ICE or CBP?

- You should be aware of your rights whenever dealing with Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), Border Patrol, or other law enforcement.
- If you are stopped by immigration or other law enforcement, remember:
 - Stay calm. Do not run. Do not resist or obstruct the officer.
 - Do not lie or provide false documents.
 - You have the right to remain silent and not answer questions. You can say, “I want to remain silent” or “I don’t want to answer questions.”
 - If an agent asks if they can search you or your belongings, you have the right to say no. You can say, “I do not consent to a search.”
 - You have the right to know if and why you are being detained or arrested. You can ask, “Am I free to go?” or “Why am I being detained?”
 - You have the right to record what is happening to you or others. You can say, “I have the right to record.”
 - If you are stopped, detained, or harassed by law enforcement, try to get the agent(s)’ name, number, and any other identifying information.
- For KYR resources in multiple languages, visit nyic.org/kyr

Do I have additional rights if ICE or CBP comes to my home or my workplace?

- Your home and other “private spaces” (such as employee-only areas of a workplace) carry special protections that public spaces do not.
- Officers can only enter private spaces if they have your consent or they show you a judicial warrant, signed by a judge.
- If ICE comes to your home, you can keep the door closed or say, “I do not consent to a search” and ask to see a judicial warrant.

Immigration Enforcement

What can I do if I see ICE or CBP making an arrest or conducting a raid?

- If you see ICE or CBP making an arrest, remain calm and remember your rights.
- Pay attention to agents' clothing and vehicles, and note any words or symbols on them.
- If you feel safe, take video or photos of what is happening. You can also write down details of what is happening.
 - Be safe. Do not interfere with officers.
- If appropriate, share information about enforcement activity with your trusted networks. Many areas have hotlines where you can report immigration enforcement.
- Make sure to only share verified information: something that you or someone else you trust witnessed. Remember: facts, not fear!
- Support the individuals or families that are impacted. If someone is detained or arrested, work with trusted community groups to support their families and loved ones.
- Seek advice from a trusted immigration attorney.
- For a resource on what to do if you see ICE or CBP, visit nyc.org/kyr and find the document "If You See Immigration Enforcement."

How can I prepare in case me or my family gets detained?

- If you are not a U.S. Citizen and you have children, you should plan ahead in case you are ever detained by ICE, CBP or another federal agent.
- To prepare, you should:
 - Keep important documents in a safe place that other family members know about.
 - Decide who you would want to care for your children if you are not able to do so.
 - Legally designate someone to be the caretaker of your children.
 - Two of the most common ways to legally designate a caretaker are:
 - Designation of Person in Parental Relationship
 - Standby Guardianship
 - Fill out additional forms for your child, including a Travel Authorization Form or School Emergency Contact Form.
 - You may also want to consider filling out a Power of Attorney form.
- For more information, visit nyc.org/kyr and find the "Family Preparedness" section.

Immigration Detention

What are my rights if I am detained?

- Remember, you have rights, even when detained!
 - You have the right to remain silent and not answer questions.
 - You have the right to talk to a lawyer, or take time to find one.
 - You have the right to be visited by a lawyer in detention.
 - You have the right to a phone call. You can call a lawyer or your family.
 - You have the right to contact your consulate.
 - You do not have to sign anything.

How can I find out where someone is detained?

- To find a person currently in ICE custody:
 - Go to locator.ice.gov and enter the person's:
 - Name, country of birth, and birth date, or
 - 9-digit A-number
 - The ICE locator should indicate where the individual is being detained, but it may take time for them to show up in this system.
 - If you think that your loved one may be detained in a specific ICE detention facility, you may also be able to find them by:
 - Searching for them at accesscorrections.com. If their name appears, they are most likely detained in the facility you selected.
 - Contacting the facility directly at ice.gov/detention-facilities
 - If you cannot find someone using these online systems, you can contact an ICE Enforcement and Removal Operations (ERO) field office: ice.gov/contact/field-offices
 - For more information on finding someone that has been arrested or in immigrant detention, visit nilc.org/resources/how-to-find-a-loved-one-after-a-u-s-immigration-arrest.
 - This resource is available in 9 languages including English, Arabic, Chinese, Haitian Creole, Korean, Tagalog, Vietnamese, and Spanish.

How can I get connected to resources if I am detained?

- You can call an immigration detention hotline to get connected to resources.
- To call the National Immigration Detention Hotline, dial 9233# from a facility phone. The hotline is free, unmonitored, and available Monday through Friday, 11am-11pm.
- To call the Justice for Migrant Families hotline, which is available for the Buffalo Federal Detention Facility, call 716-427-4917, Monday through Thursday, 2pm-4pm and 6pm-8pm.

Immigration Court

How can I find out if and when I have an immigration court hearing?

- To find a person's court date and location:
 - Visit acis.eoir.justice.gov and enter the person's 9-digit A-number, or
 - Call 1-800-898-7180 and follow the instructions.

Where can I find legal assistance?

- To get information and referrals for legal help, call the NYS Office for New Americans Hotline at 1-800-566-7636.
- New York City residents can also call the MOIA Immigration Legal Support Hotline at 1-800-354-0365, or call 311 and say "Immigration Legal."
- To find a list of nonprofit organizations that provide free or low-cost immigration legal services across the country, visit www.immigrationadvocates.org/legaldirectory.
- Be aware of immigration fraud.
 - Immigration law is complicated. Be careful when discussing your situation with any person or business.
 - You should only speak to a lawyer or Department of Justice (DOJ) accredited representative for legal advice on your situation.

How can I support someone getting released from detention?

- A bond is money paid to DHS to guarantee that, if someone is released, they will appear in court for all of their hearings.
- If your loved one has been granted a bond that they cannot afford or you need general assistance with posting the bond, they may be eligible for bond assistance from a bond fund.
- For information on bonds in New York state, visit envisionfreedom.org/get-support

Access health insurance

What is health insurance and who is eligible?

- Health insurance helps pay for medical care, such as doctor visits, hospital stays, prescriptions, and emergency services. It can make health care more affordable and help protect you from high medical bills.
- Many people are eligible for health insurance. You may qualify for different plans based on your job, income, age, disability, immigration status, etc.
- To see if you qualify for health insurance, visit: nystateofhealth.ny.gov

Are undocumented immigrants eligible for health insurance?

- You may be eligible for health insurance based on your age and/or income.
- Undocumented immigrants living in New York State who are age 65 and older, and meet certain income requirements, are eligible for Medicaid.
- Undocumented children under 19 are eligible for Child Health Plus (CHP), which provides free or low-cost health insurance regardless of income or immigration status.

How do I enroll in health insurance?

- New Yorkers can get public and commercial health insurance through NY State of Health.
 - If you qualify for Medicaid, the Essential Plan, or Child Health Plus, enrollment is open all year.
 - If you get commercial health insurance through the ACA marketplace, the upcoming open enrollment period will run from November 1, 2026 - December 15, 2026; this is significantly shorter than previous years..
 - If you qualify for a Special Enrollment Period, such as after changes in immigration status, income, moving, etc., you may be able to enroll outside of the open enrollment window.
- How to enroll
 - Get free enrollment assistance from a Navigator, in person or by phone. Find a Navigator at info.nystateofhealth.ny.gov/NavigatorDirectory.
 - Call the NY State of Health Customer Service Center at 1-855-355-5777 (TTY: 1-800-662-1220).
 - Online at nystateofhealth.ny.gov. A chat feature is available on the website during customer service center hours to help you complete your application.
 - New York City residents: call 311, text “CoveredNYC” to 877-877, or visit on.nyc.gov/healthinsurance for help and additional resources.

Access healthcare services

Are there services available for people without health insurance?

- Even if you are not eligible for insurance, you can still receive emergency medical care and may be able to access community health centers, clinics, and local health programs.
- Federally qualified health centers (FQHCs) must provide health care regardless of an individual's ability to pay, or their lack of insurance coverage. They offer sliding-scale fees based on income and do not ask for proof of immigration status.
 - To find a federally qualified health center near you, visit findahealthcenter.hrsa.gov
- There are also certain healthcare services you can access without health insurance.
 - Cancer Screenings:
 - If you do not have insurance, NYS provides free screening for breast, cervical, and colorectal cancer.
 - For more information, visit health.ny.gov/diseases/cancer/services
- Vaccines:
 - If you do not have insurance, the New York State Vaccines for Adults (VFA) Program provides vaccines at no cost to eligible adults. The vaccines are distributed to health care facilities that are enrolled as VFA providers.
 - For more information, visit health.ny.gov/prevention/immunization
 - For a list of the recommended vaccines, visit bit.ly/vaccines26

What services are available for New York City residents?

- NYC Care connects New York City residents, regardless of income or immigration status, with access to the City's public health system, Health+Hospitals.
- NYC Care doesn't ask about immigration status.
- You qualify for NYC Care if you:
 - Live in New York City
 - Don't have health insurance from your employer
 - Don't qualify for any health insurance plan available in New York State
 - Are not eligible for health insurance based on government guidelines
- How to apply:
 - Apply by phone: Call 646-692-2273
 - Apply in-person:
 - Visit an NYC Health + Hospitals location
 - Visit a community-based organization

Can ICE conduct enforcement or make an arrest at a health center?

- In January 2025, the Trump administration cancelled a longstanding policy that directs ICE and CBP to avoid immigration enforcement in “sensitive locations” or “protected areas” such as healthcare facilities. This means that ICE agents can access areas of the health centers where they would allow general members of the public.
- However, the Fourth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution protects everyone’s privacy regardless of their immigration status. Most health centers have areas that are private and protected from immigration enforcement, unless agents have a judicial warrant.

Are there NYS protections to prevent ICE from entering and making an arrest at a health center?

- New Yorkers have some protections in health centers.
- A 2018 New York State Executive Order prohibits immigration enforcement at New York state facilities such as state hospitals, unless ICE has a judicial warrant.
- On May 27, 2026, Governor Hochul and the New York State Legislature passed a new law called the Sensitive Location Protection Act, which empowers “sensitive locations” such as hospitals to deny access to immigration enforcement without a judicial warrant.

What are considered “private spaces” of a health center?

- Law enforcement, including ICE and CBP, cannot conduct a search in places where there is a reasonable expectation of privacy.
- Every facility is different, but it is expected that doctor’s offices or examination rooms would be considered “private spaces.”
- Areas such as the lobby which are open to the public would not be considered “private” and therefore are less protected.

What can patients do to protect themselves? What can hospitals do to keep their patients safe?

- To protect yourself, patients can:
 - Ask a friend or community member to accompany you to and from your appointments
 - Know your rights and what areas are private spaces and which are public
 - Make a plan and be prepared in case of an interaction with ICE or CBP
- To keep their patients safe, health care centers can:
 - Clearly designate and identify private spaces
 - Create clear protocols for interactions with law enforcement, including ICE and CBP
 - Train all staff on their rights and responsibilities.
 - Post Know Your Rights information in different languages throughout health centers
 - Remember privacy protections and do not share more information than necessary with law enforcement.

Who is eligible to attend NYS public schools? Do I need to have a certain immigration status?

- NYS guarantees every child, regardless of immigration status, the right to a free and quality public education, starting in kindergarten and until they either receive a high school diploma, or age out at the end of the year in which the student turns 21.
- Public schools cannot ask about immigration status and will not share student information for any regular day school program.
- Some early childhood programs with extended hours may have immigration or income-based eligibility requirements.

How do I enroll in public school?

- Students can apply and enroll in a NYS public school at any time throughout the year, though options may be limited outside the traditional enrollment period.
- New York City Public Schools information
 - For information on the admissions process, visit schools.nyc.gov/enrollment/enrollment-help/new-students.
 - To find and apply to a NYC Public School, visit myschools.nyc.gov, call 311, or visit a Family Welcome Center for assistance. Family Welcome Center locations can be found at schools.nyc.gov/fwc.
 - Enrollment periods vary depending on different grade levels. To see the Fall 2026 Admissions Timeline, visit schools.nyc.gov/enroll.

What documentation can schools require at enrollment?

- Schools may ask students and parents for proof that the student resides in a school district. Documentation could include leases, utility bills, income tax forms, or an ID.
- Schools may also require proof that an adult is a parent or legal guardian in some cases.
- However, NYS public schools cannot require students or their parents to provide a Social Security number or other information that is hard or impossible for noncitizens, undocumented students, or people who rent their homes without a lease to provide.

What education options are available for adult students?

- In NYS, you are able to attend public school until you turn 21 or receive a high school diploma.
- There are also options for adult students who want to learn English or earn their GED.
- To find an adult education program near you, visit aces.nysed.gov/aepp/find-adult-education-program

Are there financial aid options available to make college/university more affordable?

- Yes, there are multiple NYS financial aid programs.
- Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) helps eligible New York residents pay tuition at approved schools in NYS.
 - An annual TAP award can be up to $5,665. Because TAP is a grant, it does not have to be paid back.

Can ICE make an arrest when students are going to/ from school?

- ICE can, in some circumstances, make arrests in public, including on public streets where students are traveling to or from school. Traveling to/ from school can be higher risk as students walk, wait at bus stops, or ride in private vehicles.
- NYS does have special protections that prevent ICE agents from entering school buses without a judicial warrant.

How can students protect themselves? What can schools do to keep their students safe?

- To protect yourself, students can:

Community Safety

Everyone, regardless of immigration status or identity, deserves to be safe in their community.

Hate Crimes and Bias

- A hate crime is an offense that is motivated by bias against a person's race, color, national origin, ancestry, gender, religion, religious practice, age, disability or sexual orientation.
- New York State has a Hate Crimes Task Force to address the increase in reports of bias-motivated threats, harassment and violence.
- If you see something or are a victim of a hate crime:
 - Report it to the NYS Division of Human Rights. Call 1-888-392-3644, text "HATE" to 81336, or go to forms.ny.gov/s3/Hate-Crime-Tips. You can visit dhr.ny.gov for more information.
 - To report a hate crime in progress or any emergency, call 911 immediately.
- When hate crimes are reported, all information regarding your experience, identity, and others remains confidential.
- You can report a hate crime and receive services regardless of your immigration status.

Community Resources

- The New York City Office for the Prevention of Hate Crimes offers services, resources, and support to community members and organizations. Resources are available in multiple languages. For more information, visit nyc.gov/stophate.
- The Center for Anti-Violence Education works to prevent, disrupt, and heal from hate violence in New York communities. They have education programs on self-defense, bystander workshops, and youth empowerment. Call 1-718-788-1775 or visit caeny.org for more information.
